Outlook Invites All to See New Press Room, Offices at Open House April 10

An invitation to tour the Outlook's remodeled offices and expanded press room was extended today by Publisher Bill Norton and the Outlook staff.

Valley residents, other Outlook readers and any interested parties are welcome at the open house celebration scheduled for Saturday, April 10, from 1-5 p.m., Norton said.

Conducted tours of the newly-installed printing facilities and editorial, advertising and production offices will be featured.

Readers will also be welcome to meet and talk with staff members, according to Norton.

A new photo-offset printing press with a capacity of 20,000 pages per hour provides the heart of the press room. The press was moved to Carmel Valley from Cupertino near San Jose.

Some Valley oldtimers claim the 13-ton Hoe sheet-fed rotary press is the largest piece of machinery in Carmel Valley.

With other presses and related equipment recently installed, the Outlook has one of the largest and most efficient combination newspaper-job printing facilities in Monterey County, Norton pointed out.

Supervisors Reverse Planners' Decision on Lodge 3-2

By a 3-2 vote before an overflow crowd in the Supervisors Chambers in Salinas Monday, the County Board of Supervisors reversed a previous decision of the County Planning Commission which had granted a use permit to Walnut Lodge Foundation, Inc.

The permit would have allowed the non-profit corporation to operate, in the former Cowan School facility, a halfway house for patients discharged from mental hospitals and the emotionally disturbed for whom commitment to a hospital was not necessary.

Dr. Robert Goulding, Carmel psychiatrist and one of the founders, said that the group will now seek a facility in some other part of the county.

The two-hour hearing began with a request for orderly behavior from Chairman Tom Hudson and ended with Hudson and Supervisors Beauford Anderson and Warren Church voting against the Lodge while Supervisors Arthur Atteridge and Harold Henry cast the dissenting votes.

Momentarily it had appeared there would be an impasse when none of the other Supervisors would agree to second a motion by Anderson that the appeal be granted and the use permit rescinded.

Finally Chairman Hudson seconded the motion himself.

Supporters of the Lodge, who had counted on the vote of recently elected Supervisor Church, remarked that his vote with Hudson and Anderson appeared to have been made with extreme reluctance.

The case against the Lodge was presented first by Attorney Myron Etienne, who presented the following speakers: Realtor-Appraiser Herb Brownell; CV Chamber of Commerce President Rex White, and CV Business Property Owners President Louis Gardner.

Attorney David Hollingsworth representing appellant Arne Kippenes, also spoke for the opposition.

Presiding over the defense of the Lodge was the Rev. James Brock, who introduced 10 speakers including a member of the board of education of Carmel Unified School District, a representative for the Carmel Valley Property Owners Association, a psychiatrist, a realtor, a retired educator, three adjoining or nearby property owners, and -- in a dramatic climax which rocked the Supervisors Chambers -- two former mental patients now property owners and residents of Carmel Valley. Attorney Richard Tourangeau summarized the defense, which had taken considerably more time than the appellants'.

Arguments against the Lodge were mainly as follows: Etienne said that a hospital is not a permitted use in C-1 zoning and would cause a decline in adjoining property values. He presented petitions with signatures of 385 property owners or Valley residents in opposition.

Brownell stated that he had telephoned appraisers in San Francisco and San Jose and asked them if a mental hospital would deteriorate property values and they had indicated they "thought this probable."

Dr. Donald Schma of Rancho Canada had a commitment for nearby property which was reduced $2,500 following the Walnut Lodge proposal, Brownell said.

White said that the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce had voted unanimously against the Lodge except for County Planning Commissioner Dr. Edward P. Marcucci, who abstained.

Gardner said that the necessity for a use permit implies a marginal use and that the Lodge would harm the businesses of local people dependent on these for the livelihood of their families.

"No progress is made if by doing good for one group we do ill to another," he noted.

The Rev. Brock of St. Dunstan's Episcopal Church led off the defense with petitions signed by 213.

Dr. Hilton Bialek had been invited by the Valley supporters to join their number. Although a member of the Carmel Unified board of education, Dr. Bialek stressed that he spoke as a private citizen since the board had not considered the question.

As a resident psychologist at Napa State Hospital (for 6,000 seriously ill mental patients), Bialek said, he had never heard of an unpleasant incident involving nearby residents.

"Real estate values did not suffer," he stated. "There were no locked gates. A resident psychologist was considered lucky if he got housing on the grounds for himself and family -- including children."

Most dramatic moment of the afternoon was the appearance of Gene Abel.

"I am a former mental patient," he told the astounded supervisors. "I have purchased a lot in Carmel Valley and am building a home. The Valleyites may not want former mental patients in the Lodge for temporary stays, but they will have me permanently!"

"There is nothing like a nervous breakdown to slow a person's tempo," he told the board. "In my case it was probably a good thing, since I was burning the candle at both ends so much that the doctor said I would have had a heart attack if I hadn't had the breakdown.

"In the year before my commitment to Agnews I had four moving violations, I was so impatient...On the way here, I got behind a slow driver and just relaxed, figuring it wouldn't be more than 20 seconds before I could pass safely -- and it wasn't."

Applause followed Abel's speech and Hudson commented wryly, "I think you're entitled to that round."

Other speakers for the Lodge were Anders Larsen on behalf of the Carmel Valley Property Owners Association, realtor Nancy Strathmeyer, retired educator Doyt Early, adjoining property owner Bettie O'Neal, adjoining property owner John Anderson, Robles resident Ginnie Drew, who read letters from three other nearby residents; and Mrs. Doreen Bussinger, attractive CV housewife and mother. She startled the Supervisors and audience for the second time with the announcement that she, too, had had a breakdown three years previously but that none of her present friends and neighbors were aware of this.

Attorney Tourangeau made the following statements:

--The appellant has the responsibility for proving that an error was made in the original hearing.

--The opposition had presented almost no definite evidence that property values would be harmed, only suppositions. The appraisers consulted had been told there would be a hospital, which Walnut Lodge is not.

--The use of terms such as "dope fiend" and "sex pervert" in the opposition's petition were misleading to signers as these types of patients were specifically prohibited; the terms were used in order to arouse fear.

An initial show of hands "for" and "against" the Lodge called for by Hudson elicited raised hands from 3/4 of the audience in favor of the Lodge.

The second and third showing of hands (after some confusion) was limited to residents and property owners of the area immediately surrounding the Cowan School. The hand count showed a large preponderance of these against the Lodge.

"Pretty obvously the people in the Valley are against it," commented Hudson.

Dr. Robert Goulding, Carmel psychiatrist and one of the founders of Walnut Lodge Foundation, issued the following statement after the appeal Monday when the Board of Supervisors ruled that Walnut Lodge cannot be established in Carmel Valley:

"To all residents of Carmel Valley who gave the project their sincere and serious thought, both pro and con, I would like to express appreciation. I hope that when we find another location we can count on their support."

Dr. Hilton Bialek, research psychologist with HUMMRO and a member of the board of education of Carmel Unified School District, asked to speak at Monday's hearing by Carmel Valley residents who supported the project, made the following statement after the supervisors' decision:

"During this current school year to date, 39 children in Carmel Unified School District have been referred for help with emotional or behavior problems. If any of these require some treatment, we have no local facility for them.

"Walnut Lodge might have been the first step in a sensible local mental health program. Some of these children might even have come from Carmel Valley."

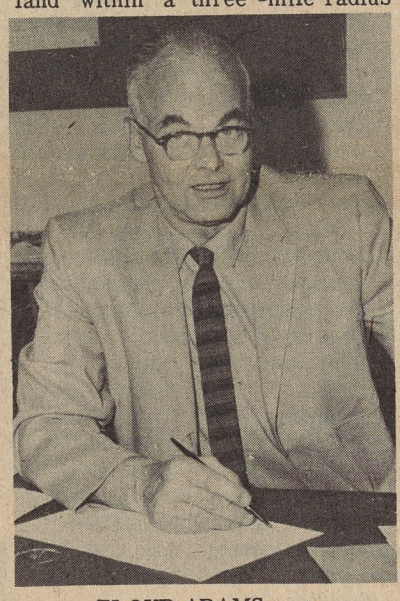
Carmel, Area Plans

Carmel Planner Urges Help From Valleyites

Floyd Adams, planning director of the City of Carmel-by-the Sea, has issued an urgent invitation to Carmel Valleyites to collaborate with Carmel in necessary planning for a mutual zone of interest that includes much of the Lower Valley.

According to state law, a city such as Carmel must include in its General Plan consideration of land within a three-mile radius outside its city limits.



FLOYD ADAMS

Particularly he hopes that Valley representatives will attend a meeting of the Carmel Planning Commission tonight at 7:30 p.m. in the Council Chambers at Carmel City Hall.

On the agenda is consideration of the Carmel General Plan in relation to the Area Plan. The planners usually meet in the afternoon but re-scheduled this meeting especially so that additional interested citizens might attend.

Adams spoke briefly before about 50 Valley residents at the luncheon meeting called by Supervisor Tom Hudson at the Carmel Valley Golf and Country Club last Wednesday.

"We hope to be useful to you," Adams stressed. "Your purposes we feel are not essentially different from ours."

"Send representatives, write, phone, complain -- but communicate whatever you wish," he urged.

"Carmel may be an incorporated city, but like you -- we are County-bound."

"Carmel's Planning Commission has certain strong positions which are not always made clear by the press," he continued. "We want you in the Valley to understand these. For example, we feel that convervation is one thing and public recreation is quite another..."

Concerning the Area Plan, Adams said "its form of proposal makes it very flexible and thus amenable to the desires of the people. It can be made meaningful to the people by the people."

When Hudson commented on the great amount of pressure which the County Planners are now experiencing, Adams remarked, "The Area Planning Commission as a body could channel down and relieve the pressures on the County Planning Commission."

Adams also said that he "understood there was considerable opposition to the Area Plan in Carmel Valley." Assured by County Planning Commissioner Dr. Edward P. Marcucci that such was not the case, Adams replied he had been "given to understand" that such concern existed.

Adams later told the Outlook that he found Marcucci's statement "very reassuring."

Commented Supervisor Hudson: "Despite constant insinuations that the large property owners' organization -- the MCCCP -- was formed for the purpose of opposing the Area Plan, when the shouting is over we will have an Area Plan to carry out far more than was originally intended."

The Carmel Planning Commission regularly meets every third and fourth Wednesday at 4 p.m. in the Council Chambers at Carmel City Hall, next to the Spinning Wheel restaurant on Monte Verde between Ocean and Seventh Streets.

CVPOA Directors Reset Session

A board of directors meeting of the Carmel Valley Property Owners Association originally scheduled for Thursday has been postponed for one week, according to President "Step" Tyner.

The meeting is now scheduled for April 8 at 8 p.m. in Carmel Valley Community Center.

Hatton Park

Mid-Valley Property Owners Ponder Resort in Lower Valley

No action was taken by the Mid-Valley Property Owners Association last week on the proposed "Hatton Park" development between Carmel Rancho and Carmel Junior High School, according to Mrs. Marie Frumkin, who presided over the meeting in the absence of President Ariel Lane.

Mrs. Frumkin said that a presentation by developer August Nieto was attended by about 25 people, mostly from Carmel Knolls, Rancho Rio Vista and Val Verde Drive.

Present with Nieto were his partners in the enterprise, Mr. and Mrs. Kevin Walsh, and the architect for the development, Thomas Elston.

Their plan calls for a 200-unit resort facility (hotel or motel) to be constructed, over a seven year period, on 25 hillside acres.

A restaurant and cocktail lounge would be included.

An adjoining 50 acres of land through which the river flows would be leased for 35 years and developed as a public golf course, considered "open space" by the developers.

The question was raised as to what would happen to the golf course after the lease expired, Mrs. Frumkin said.

The County Planning Commission recently continued the application because the proposals for recreation were not considered sufficiently specific for action to be taken.

Lack of Parent Help Threatens Little League

Will there be a Little League in Carmel Valley this season?

Perhaps not, Little League President Sherman LaFave said this week, if parent response doesn't become any greater.

So far, response has been "absolutely nil" in three scheduled meetings, he noted.

The problem is even worse than last season, when nine games had to be canceled for lack of umpires, said LaFave.

The league's next meeting, a mandatory one for parents of prospective players, will be Friday night at 7:30 at the Valley Village firehouse.

Some managers and coaches will appear, along with LaFave.

The league, which includes four major and three farm teams, is open to boys 8-12 living from the sawmill near the Valley mouth to one mile past the Jamesburg cut-off on Carmel Valley Road.

Men and women volunteers are needed for various tasks, LaFave said, plus a sports reporter to keep track of each game.

Editorial: Post-Mortem on Walnut Lodge

Halfway houses in all parts of the nation have met with fearful opposition at the outset even though experience shows they are later accepted, the supporters of Walnut Lodge told the Board of Supervisors last Monday. So there should have been no surprise that hundreds of people in Carmel Valley opposed the project and no great blame attached to emotions which are all too human.

What is astonishing, however, is that so many people expressed themselves in favor of the project.

Often accused of being automatically "agin'" anything new in the Valley, the CVPOA Board in the words of President Step Tyner, "seized the opportunity to be constructively in favor of something for a change."

And a brand-new group, mostly professional people, hitherto uninvolved in local affairs, has been heard from -- motivated apparently by the idea of conserving human resources rather than those purely scenic. These people include scientists, physicians, college and Postgrad School faculty, etc.

Supervisor Hudson was, we think, entirely correct in one statement he made as he closed the hearing last Monday. Said Tom:

"We got a thorough education on this issue."

Yes, nearly everybody in Carmel Valley learned something about mental hygiene and the needs of the mentally ill. And that group of newly interested residents referred to, whom we supect will remain more active than formerly in Valley affairs, got a rousing lesson in practical politics -- County style! That's all to the good, no matter how disappointed the Lodge's proponents may be.

But on the debit side, many animosities have developed in Carmel Valley -- in some cases between neighbors, in others actually within families. The two-month argument since Walnut Lodge first hit the front page on February 3 has been hard on community solidarity.

Additional complicating factors: Dozens of people who had committed themselves warmly to working for a new charitable project are now left dangling...And now that the spectre is vanished, we suspect that many who helped defeat the proposal may be feeling more apologetic than vindictive.

Can these positive feelings now be harnessed in the truly charitable process of mending breaches? Surely, that is what Carmel Valley needs most right now. — BB

The Sheriff's Blotter

MARCH 18 -- A resident of West Carmel Valley Road reported that clothing belonging to his daughter had been stolen while they were gone on a weekend trip March 13-14. Missing are five size 14 skirts, two size 14 swimsuits, and two size 8 1/2 pumps. Also stolen was an Underwood typewriter. Deputies said they had uncovered no leads.

MARCH 17 -- A doctor with his office in the Valley Village reported that a pet pit bull-airedale had bitten the 22-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Scardina to death at their Upper Circle home. The child had wandered to their backyard 10 minutes before a visitor discovered the body with the left side of the face, left ear and neck bitten. The father was contacted at work, returned home and destroyed the animal. Deputies said no sound was heard to indicate any struggle.

MARCH 27 - Various items of men's jewelry, three cameras, a television set and five sweaters were stolen when a Paso Hondo house which two men are sharing was burglarized.

No suspects have yet been caught, according to Sheriff's deputies.

The burglar entered by prying a screen off a bedroom window and took a wristwatch, two rings, an Argus, a Polaroid and a Rolliflex camera with leather cases, an eight-inch television set and five sweaters, three Danspin brand from Denmark.

MARCH 28 - Resident of Palisades Drive reported burglary of his house. Taken was a transistor radio with leather case. Other valuables were left untouched.

MARCH 25 - A newspaper rack with coin box broken into was discovered in the driveway of a Los Laureles Road resident.

Supervised In-Home Program

Valley Argues on Walnut Lodge; Salinas Finds Alternate Solution

While Carmel Valley debates a local facility which would bring former mental patients back into the community, a program for this purpose has been quietly operating in Salinas for the past six years.

The "Family Care Program" of the California Department of Mental Hygiene has brought improvement to ex-patients, financial savings to the State, and never an objection from any Salinas neighbor, according to Psychiatric Social Worker Max Shames (pronounced Sha-mus.)

He seemed mildly surprised that the latter question had arisen.

The Family Care Program differs in several ways from a Halfway House such as that proposed for Carmel Valley. The 35 former patients (most of them released from Agnews) currently in the Salinas program are quartered in private homes rather than a central facility such as the former Cowan School buildings. Eight licensed homes in Salinas now house from one to six patients apiece.

A second difference is that while patients referred to a Halfway House are carefully selected for an expectation that they will very soon be returning to normal community life, patients in the Family Care program are generally in their 50's and 60's and in many cases it is expected that they will remain with the "caretaker families" for several years or even the rest of their lives.

"But sometimes the friendly interest they receive works such wonders that the results are more than we had ever hoped for," says Mr. Shames.

"For example, we found a home for a woman who had been in Agnews 15 years. She seemed completely withdrawn. None of the professional people in the hospital had ever been able to get close to her.

"Her face was badly disfigured and she spent most of her time in a corner, literally turning her face away from the world.

"Her husband had died years before. She had no one. When she left the hospital, she still had some delusions -- harmless ones. She thought, for example, that she could send teletype messages merely by tapping with her fingers...

"After one week in this warm family atmosphere, she began to help with the ironing, even earning money for herself by taking in ironing for neighbors. This was after 15 years in the hospital during which she had shown no improvement at all!

"Her caretaker family took her to church. She really began to blossom. After one month she was supporting herself as a maid. She asked permission to go to visit some relatives in another state, after three months -- and I agreed.

"She went by herself on the bus, stayed briefly with the relatives, got a job, and actually remarried. She is now living normally and still writes grateful letters to the caretaker family which first took her in...But for them, she might still be looking into a corner at the hospital."

Mr. Shames regularly consults with the ex-patients and with the caretaker families, which he visits at least once a month apiece. Each family is paid $130 per month per patient for room and board. Shames estimated it costs the state "at least $300" per patient per month for care in mental hospitals such as Agnews.

Are there children in these families, and if so, what effect does this program have on them?

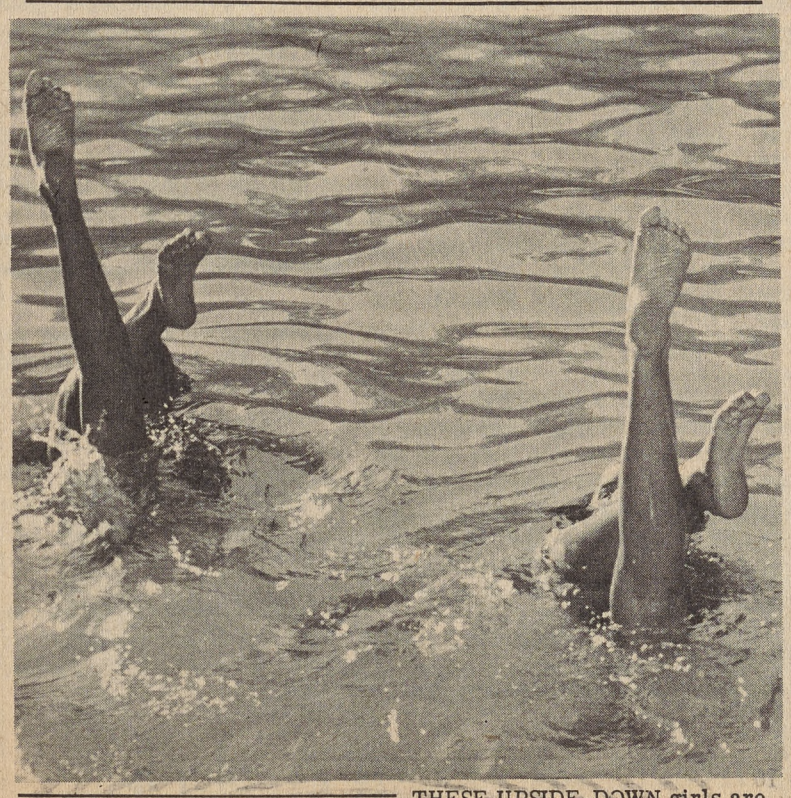
Again, Mr. Shames surprised at the question. "Of course there are children--" he began. "But that does seem a rather ridiculous question ... Sometimes we who are familiar with the problems forget that the public has not really been informed.

"Usually it seems to me the children treat the adult patient more or less like aunties and uncles. Generally the children and the older people help each other...Let's see if I can think of an example. A woman in her 60's. She helps with household tasks, but after 28 years in the hospital she is quite timid and it is felt unwise to let her walk around alone. The children walk her to the movies every Saturday. They reassure her when they cross the street. In turn, she watches the children in the movies..."

Any person or family who wishes to help others is eligible to participate in this program according to Mr. Shames. "Just tell them to get in touch with me, I'll be glad to explain more about it." His office is Room 17, the Crocker Building, 301 Main Street, Salinas, telephone, 422-9845. On Tuesday mornings he may be reached at the County Health Department office in Monterey -- 372-4583.

In the past three years, says Mr. Shames, he can recall only one patient who was not helped by this program and who had to be returned to the hospital.

One other distinct difference between Family Care and a Halfway House such as proposed in Carmel Valley is that only about one-half of the residents of a Halfway House would be former hospital patients. The other half, approximately, would be referred by their physicians from the community as in need of a temporary "retreat" from the resposibilities they have been carrying. Halfway Houses are designed not only as a bridge from the hospital back into the community. They are also intended to spare many the painful and more expensive experience of being sent to a mental hospital.



THESE UPSIDE-DOWN girls are Marilyn and Marsha Lane of Carmel Valley, who garnered a silver medal for their performance of a synchronized swimming routine at the Pacific Association AAU Junior Indoor Championships last week at Oakland. The sisters, representing Cypress Swim Club of Monterey, came in a close second with their performance of "Dream of Conquest." Their next competition is at the Senior Association Championships in San Francisco on Sunday.

Penny Bell Wed to Bob Haller

Miss Penny Aileen Bell became Mrs. Robert Boyd Haller II in a twilight ceremony on Feb. 13 at Carmel Valley Community Chapel with the Rev. Don Johnson officiating.

The daughter of Mrs. Mary A. Bell of Monterey and Mason E. Bell of Los Angeles wore a Chantilly lace gown with a scoop neck and full-length sleeves ending in points at the wrist.

Penny was attended by her maid of honor, Miss Sheryl Kastor, formerly of Carmel Valley and now of Soledad, and one bridesmaid, Miss Kathy Baker of Redondo Beach.

The bridegroom's mother is Mrs. Mary Jeanne Haller of Carmel Valley and his father was the late Boyd Haller.

Some 125 guests filled the chapel and overflowed into an adjoining room, while an even larger number convened later for a reception

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Careau of RR 2, Box 396x, Carmel, welcomed twins to the family Feb. 25. They were named Corinne Holly and Michael Christopher.

Heart Drive In Carmel Area Raises $728

Final returns of the Heart Days for Business campaign in th e Carmel area total $728, it was announced this week by Capt. Charles M. Jett (USN, Ret.), local 1965 campaign chairman.

Capt. Jett explained that the contributions will be used to support programs of heart research, public and professional education and community service.

"They look toward a reduction in death and disability from cardiovascular disease, now responsible for more than 54 per cent of all deaths in the nation," he noted.

"We are most grateful for the public spirited services rendered by volunteers, campaign leaders, and news media in support of the Heart Fund," Jett said.

"Once again they have demonstrated that this community cannot and does not fail where the cause is worthy."

The campaign was conducted by the Carmel Kiwanis Club.

Over 4.4 million women and children receive monthly social security survivors benefits.

If someone in your family dies, check with the social security district office to see if monthly social security survivor benefits are payable.

Rex Pryer Suggests New District on Flood Control

Attorney Rex Pryer, a Robles Del Rio homeowner, called the Outlook to present reactions to the recent news that the U.S. Army Engineers have received funds to begin another study (the fifth) of possible flood control measures for the Carmel River plain.

Since some of Mr. Pryer's ideas represent a commonsense layman's approach rather than that of a technical expert, we agreed to seek opinions in that area from Loren Bunte, Monterey District Flood Control Engineer. His statement elsewhere on this page. Mr. Pryer's statement follows:

"It would seem to me that if they build a big dam it would be empty most of the time, if the type of rainfall that we have had in the past decade or so is any sample.

The thought that they could save more water and release water all year around is appealing, but I suspect there would be only a few years when there would be much water to release except for a brief time.

If the demand from the community to withdraw water increases, as it's bound to do, even less water will be available. I would assume that eventually no water would run down the Carmel River at all. The shrubs and trees would tend to grow together over the riverbed.

In nearby counties we can see large dams which have created nothing but wastelands where have been cut down or have died in water which was present all too briefly. Can the army engineers assure us that the same thing would not happen here?

An alternative to building a big dam would be to form a district which would offer to buy the property of anyone who owned land within the flood plain and wished to sell. The total cost of buying all of the property in the flood plain at this time should not be as much as the cost of building a dam as large as that which has often been discussed (at Klondike Canyon.) No one would be forced to sell to the district, you understand--but the machinery to acquire land from those who wished to sell, and to administer it, should be formulated.

If a dam is built, the value of the present floodplain will rise because it will no longer be in danger of flooding. If you are going to build a dam and also wish to have a park, the latter should be done first, for that reason. The people who now own floodland will get a windfall in increased property value when the hazard is reduced which kept the land at a lower value.

Who is going to give them that windfall? Everybody in the district, mostly those who do not live on the floodplain.

When we talk about acquiring floodplain land for a park, we don't necessarily mean the whole floodplain--just that part which would be reserved for recreation. In later years, individual owners of floodland might decide that they did want to sell. Nor is it unheard of for individuals to donate or will land for public purposes.

The park could be used for bridle trails, and could make the River available for youngsters to raft, swim, hunt pollywogs, or whatever was seasonable. Right now it is not too hard for them to get to the River, but unless we take steps that situation will change before too long.

To form a district, the people of the Valley would have to petition to hold an election. If it passes, a district is formed. The election generally includes the choosing of administrators for the district."

County Flood Engineer Replies

Asked to comment on the ideas of Attorney Rex Pryer (see The Listening Post), Monterey County Flood Control Engineer Loren Bunte said he would like to provide facts regarding the amount of rainfall in the Carmel River.

For example, the preliminary edition of the May, 1956, issue of Bulletin 3 of the State Department of Water Resources states as follows:

"The Klondike Reservoir would be operated in conjunction with the Los Padres Reservoir and would provide a seasonal new yield of 27,300 acre feet." (meaning, per year).

Bunte said further, "Our records both measured and derived shou an average annual flow at the San Clemente Dam of 61,600 acre feet per year. Of course the actual amount varies considerably as most coastal streams do. We have recorded a low of 6000 feet in 1931 and a high of 209,900 in 1941.

While 1941 was a "floof year," Bunte said, it was not so severe a season as 1938 or 1950 when there were peaks during storms, while during 1941 the fainfall was more frequent but less intense at any one time.

Asked to comment on Mr. Pryer's prognostication thea the dam would be dry or nearly so most years, Mr. Bunte said that it will not be possible to predict the actual situation until a 'detailed routing of the resrvoir"

Social security taxes buy survivors and disability protection as well as assuring retirement income.

Nine of every ten children under 18 would receive social security benefits if their fathers died.

Questions & Answers on Health Problems

Question: "An X-ray examination in 1962 showed a calcified area in my left lung about the size of a silver dollar. Is there anything I can do to counteract this condition?"

Answer: If your doctor told you that it was a calcified area, I don't think you have much to worry about. This is probably a healed lesion from a previous tuberculous infection. In older people there are many such lesions. Many of us acquired tuberculosis in our younger days but never developed any symptoms, so the condition was not recognized. Nature's process of repair is to surround the infection first of all with scar tissue and later with calcium. I, myself, have a large, healed, calcified lesi on in one of my lungs which has been there for many years, yet I never had evidence of TB. Skin tests formerly showed that the majority of people living in urban areas had a positive reaction, which indicated they had at some time been infected wit.. tubercle bacilli. I believe that as many as 90% of the population in certain areas showed positivity, yet the great majority of these patients never were diagnosed as having tuberculosis. In grandmother's day it was thought that if a person contracted tuberculosis the condition was bound to get worse and that within a year or so he'd die of the disease. It was learned later, however, that while a certain number succumbed, the great majority of people who had become infected recovered spontaneously without symptoms or perhaps with only minor symptoms which were not recognized as due to tuberculosis. Today, the situation is quite different. Because tuberculosis has been largely eliminated as a prevailing disease, positive skin tests are becoming much less common. X-ray specialists discover these old scars quite frequently, even today, in the older portions of the population, but they generally ignore them as being inconsequential. So, congratulations on your recovery!

Cancer Crusade Set for April 1-12 on Peninsula, in Valley

The American Cancer Society's crusade to distribute educational material and raise funds will be held in the Monterey Peninsula area—including Carmel Valley—April 1-12.

Volunteers will make door-to-door calls, presenting residents with vital literature that includes the seven cancer danger signals.

"Read this material carefully," the society urged this week, "it could save your life or your knowledge might save the life of another."

The California division of ACS said 26,000 Californians will die of cancer this year. The national figure is 295,000.

One-sixth of these will die needlessly, it adds.

Two people in six with cancer are now being saved, but through early identification of the disease, one-half of the victims could recover.

ACS's research goals are to find the causes of cancer, new ways to cure it and ways to reduce the pain and suffering it brings.

More immediately, however, the great emphasis is upon education. In 1964 in California alone, the society's films were shown to more than a million persons and more than 3.7 million pieces of free literature were distributed.

In addition to research and educational program, ACS maintains a service division to bring comfort to cancer patients and ease the concern of their families.

This year, the society estimates it will take an extra $1 million to stay abreast of rising research costs. Another $5-$12 million is needed to expand the ACS research program.

The goal for Monterey County is $51,000.

"To reach this sum, the help of everyone is desperately needed," said the ACS.

Tularcitos School Enrollment Jumps 10 Per Cent in Year—Now 434

Tularcitos School saw a 10 per cent gain in enrollment this year, Principal Bill Malleck reported last week.

Presenting his annual report on activities to the Carmel Unified School District board of education, Malleck called the jump "a pretty sharp gain." Enrollment is 434 at present.

Greatest increases were in kindergarten and grades 3, 4 and 5, he noted.

Planning is going on for a new form of student grouping, he told the trustees. Tularcitos is in its fifth year of student grouping by personal achievement in grades 2-6 instead of traditional grade classifications.

Teachers make assignments for each pupil in spring for the following term. They are allowed to progress in each subject as fast as they are able.

Future plans also include a foreign language program in grades 5 and 6 and a science curriculum in those grades.

CV Neighbors Have Babies

Babies were born the same day to families living on the same street in Carmel Valley recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Cardoza of 11 Paso Cresta became parents of a daughter, Victoria Maureen, March 17.

A son, Brandon Paul, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Johnson, 47 Paso Cresta, on the same date.

Both were at Community Hospital.

Under The Oaks & Among The Cactus

By MILDRED HATTAN

Aboard an early morning Washington's Birthday flight, Capt. and Mrs. Francis Simmons left Monterey Peninsula Airport for Mexico City.

Following their exploration of Mexico City, they received a warm welcome in Guadalajara from Mr. and Mrs. Salvador Zepeda, parents of Mrs. Louis Moore Jr. The Zepedas were eager for news of their daughter and family and friends they have made during trips to the Peninsula.

In Acalpulco, they were hosted by Mrs. Moore's uncle in his home near beautiful Morning Beach.

A picturesque hotel overlooking the city of Cuernavaca and the exquisite silver city of Taxco are among the vacation spots the Simmons family revisits when they take time to view their vacation color slides.

Donald McKenzie Sr. was honored on his 87th birthday last Sunday by his family. They gathered for a chicken barbecue at Big Sur.

Also sharing birthday cake and greetings was Mrs. Elsie Crow. In addition to Mrs. McKenzie Sr., the picnickers were Mr. and Mrs. Donald McKenzie Jr. with Stewart, Sally and Scott; Mr. and Mrs. Richard McKenzie with David and Diane; Helen Crow; Donna McKenzie; Evelyn Ammerman, Lt. and Mrs. Robert Straples with Donna Sue, Dee Ann, Debbie and Bobbie.

Among workers completing the month-long American Red Cross fund drive were the Lower Valley volunteers who served under area chairman Mrs. F. C. Burleson.

Assisting her were Mmes. George Buck, Jean McDonald, G. H. Johnson, Jason Harbert, Ralph Jackson, H. L. Quentel, R. E. Meadows Jr., Clinton Zobel, Charles Dawson and Vernon Hurd.

Ladies attending the St. Dunstan's Benefit Card Party last Wednesday found the dessert served by Mrs. J. H. Service and her co-hostesses, Mrs. Rudolph Ploense and Mrs. Hal Janic, a special one. They patiently waited in line as Mrs. Service wrote out copies of the recipe for "Natalie's Dessert."

Prizes for the afternoon were awarded to Mrs. June Wood (high for bridge) Mrs. Philip Walker (high for canasta) and Mrs. Marie Hall of Carmel, who won the door prize.

Mrs. Daniel Moore and Mrs. Leroy Dufur were co-hostesses at a baby shower last Saturday honoring Mrs. Larry Dufur at the senior Dufur home in Rancho Canada.

An eight-foot rabbit fashioned by Mrs. Richard Gayman of chicken wire and tissue replaced the traditional stork as an honor guard for the beautiful bassinette presented by Mrs. Moore.

The bassinette, trimmed by Mrs. Dufur with yellow nylon ruffles and pink rose buds, contained a large paper mache Easter egg which held a stuffed shaggy dog for the baby-to-be and slippers for the expectant father.

Mrs. Lloyd Todd assisted with the serving the guests. These were Mrs. Audrey Brosche, Mrs. Carl Moberg, Mrs. William Harder Jr., Mrs. James Powers, Mrs. William Parham, Mrs. James Moore, Mrs. Walter Reams, Mrs. Carl Dietman, Mrs. Eric Scarlett, Mrs. William Berg, Mrs. William Far, Miss Juanita Brosche, Miss Dorothy Fritsche, Miss Dinny Craviotto, and Miss Judy Kinion.

Houseguests last week at the home of Miss Dorothy Skinner, Paso Hondo, were Mrs. Barkley Welch of Walnut Creek and Dr. Elizabeth Mitchell of Santa Fe, N.M.

Miss Ruth E. Dodds of Encina Drive was elected 12th Congressional district director of the California Democratic Council at the CDC's convention last weekend in Sacramento.

Other Valleyites serving as delegates from the Monterey Peninsula were Mrs. Henriette Millard of Robles Del Rio and Mrs. Harwell Dyer of Boronda Road.

George Thaler was honored at a party on his 18th birthday by a number of Carmel High School classmates. Hosting the affair were Jay Lang and Bill Stowers Jr. at the Country Club Drive home of Cmdr. and Mrs. William Stowers.

The pizza party was held in their party room where the young people enjoyed an evening of dancing, ping pong and billiards.

Those attending were Peggy Cole, Susan Tadlock, Betty Hask, Kathy Bingham, Marilyn Haber, Dennis McGinley, Rick Miller, Frank Lynch and Molly Helm.

David Rudolph of Paso Hondo was elected secretary of the Monterey Peninsula Junior Chamber of Commerce. The installation will be held April 10 at the Carmel Valley Golf and Country Club.

Houseguests last week at the Lupin Lane home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard McKenzie were Doreen's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John S. Brown, who have recently moved to Santa Barbara where they purchased a beautiful mobile home.

Get well wishes to Mrs. John (Shirley) Koon of 22 Flight Road who is recovering from surgery. Friends wishing to send personal greetings may address them to her at Ward C-20, Fort Ord Hospital.

Welcome to new neighbors Mr. and Mrs. Peter Lyon, who have purchased the Francis Simmons home on Via Contenta.

Former residents of Mission Fields, the Lyon children are Billy, 5 1/2; David, 4; and Bobby, 2. Mr. Lyon is a social science instructor at Carmel High School.

Variety of Calls

Ten Complete Advanced Aid Course at Valley Firehouse

Ten students, including several Carmel Valley Volunteer Firemen, this month completed a course in advanced first aid sponsored by American Red Cross.

The department's volunteer firemen-first aid crew members responded to a variety of calls in the last few weeks, including seven for first aid and one fire.

The included:

--A two-car collision at Hitchcock Canyon and Esquiline roads. Peter Baxter of Hitchcock Canyon was treated at the scene and Terry Wecker of Carmel was treated by a local physician for concussion and bruises, then transported by ambulance to Fort Ord Hospital.

--A call to the Robles Del Rio residence of Larry Cummings Jr., who had fractured his left wrist. He was transferred by ambulance to Community Hospital.

--A back seat fire in a compact sedan owned by William B. Parham of El Cuenco. A short in the battery started the blaze, which caused minor damage to the car.

--A medical emergency on Laurel Drive. Julene Druschner was transported to Community Hospital.

--A Lupin Lane medical emergency. Todd Lutton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lutton, was treated by first aid crew members.

WIRTZ BABY

A son named David Brian was born to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wirtz of Carmel March 2 at Community Hospital.

COSTUME DESIGN for Adloph Bolm's Chicago Ballet production of "El Amor Brujo" by De Falla. From Tantamount Theatre's Green Room Gallery exhibit for April: Designs for the Theatre by Rollo Peters.

Green Room Show

Tantamount Features Actor-Painter Peters

The April Green Room Gallery show at the Tantamount Theatre on Middle Canyon Road in Carmel Valley honors Rollo Peters, one of the great personages in the chronicles of American theater, with an exhibit of his designs for costumes and stage settings.

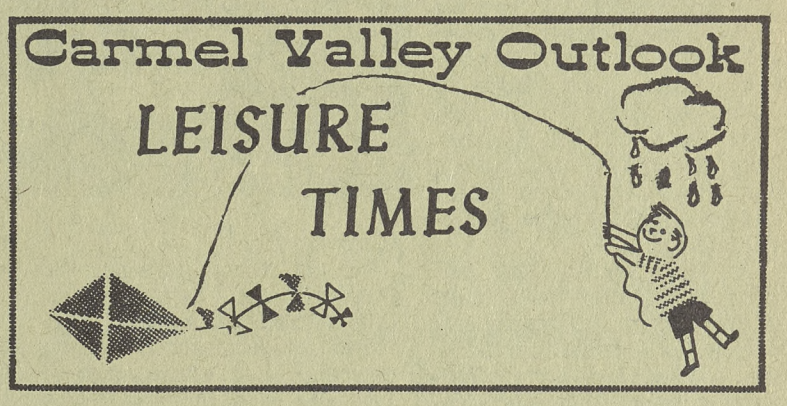
Equally celebrated as actor, painter and producer, Peters was a prime mover in shaping one of the most influential eras of our national theater. On the founding board of the original Theater Guild, he was also associated with the Washington Square players in the heyday that saw the emergence of Eugene O'Neill at the Provincetown Playhouse.

Peters' production of "Romeo and Juliet," in which he played Romeo to the Juliet of Jane Cowl, is still referred to as a milestone in the artistic coming of age of the American theater. Two of the first sketches for "Romeo and Juliet" are in the current exhibition.

Other designs on display are settings and costumes for "Taming of the Shrew," in which Peters also played Petruchio to Estelle Winwood's Katherine, with Ann Harding as Bianca.

Costume designs for De Falla's "El Amor Brujo" were executed for Adolph Bolm's Chicago Ballet. Also notable are five settings for "Streets of New York," starring Dorothy Gish, and an informal pencil portrait of Ethel Barrymore.

The Green Room Gallery is open Friday and Saturday evenings in conjunction with the Tantamount's regular program of classic and foreign films. Current attraction is "Marie du Port" in French with English subtitles, starring Jean Gabin and directed by Marcel Carne who created "Enfants du Paradis." It was first released in 1949.



Postgrad School Scores With 'Camelot', Spectacle of Splendor

By CHARLES ANDERSON

If the Naval Postgraduate School Little Theatre production of "Camelot" isn't a success, it will come as a surprise to the opening night audience.

Director Cole Weston coordinated a competent cast and staff much to the credit of the school, as Lerner and Loewe's spectacle of medieval splendor made its first Northern California appearance since 1963. That was the year San Francisco Light Opera cast Kathryn Grayson in a lead role as Guenevere.

Karen Beswick carried the difficult and demanding part to a convincing close Friday night after three-and-a-half hours of magnificent merriment, alternating with moving serious scenes.

Bill Norris as the chivalrous but naive King Arthur and Kirby Hansen as dashing Lancelot added their talent to the colorful musical in other lead parts.

Without the outstanding scenery and costuming, though, most of the magnificence would have been lost. Set designer Bob Beers and costumer Sara Crandall -- with their espective crews -- deserve much credit for adding to the overall excellence of the production.

And of course the 12th Naval District Band, conducted by J.D. Thumpston, was a vital part of the production. Augmented by a piano and several violins, a viola

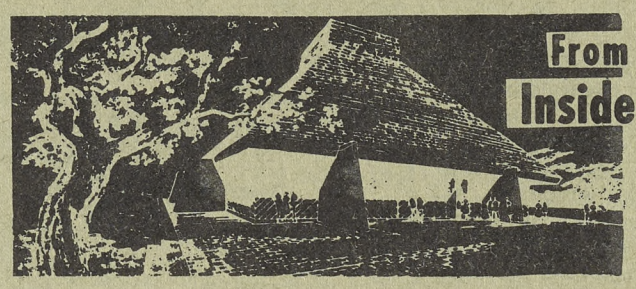
White Oaks Result of a Dream of Arts Centre

By AGNES GOOCH



From The Inside - Out

Seven years ago a lean and lithe dancer stepped on the stage at San Francisco State College and stopped the show with a fantastic dance performance in "Guys and Dolls." The dancer's name was Gale Peterson. State manager of that production was Sally Church and so started a collaboration that is still active.

Six years ago Gale and Sally came to the Valley with a dream of developing a Performing Arts Centre - a combination of acting, singing, and dance. They found a barn - literally - behind the Post Office, turned it into a theatre, christened it "White Oaks" and began putting on shows during the summer. At that time, most of the performers came from the San Francisco area. Now the White Oaks Company is in the magnificent new theatre a mile outside the Village and the actors come from all over the country.

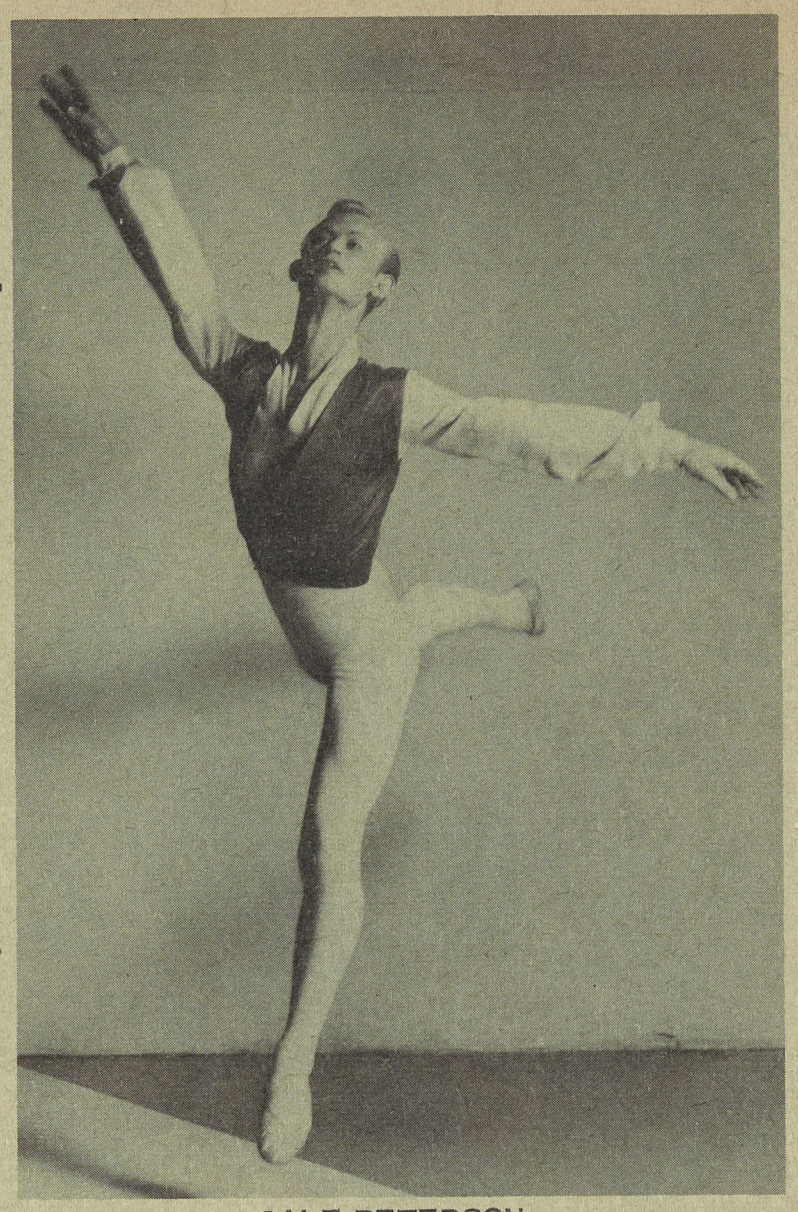
In the years betweeen the original barn and the new theatre, Gale served as designer, costumer, teacher, actor, dancer, director, and choreographer. Today he is the Artistic Director, a job that is immense in scope. He is responsible for everything that happens on the White Oaks stage.

Gale left San Francisco State as a member of the faculty. After the first summer at White Oaks, he was drafted into the Army and served eighteen months in Germany. While in Germany, he organized an Army Theatre which is still in existence today.

He returned to White Oaks, and except for six months in New York where he studied with top people in the dance, he has been working steadily to accomplish his dream.

"What do I want? Oh, that's easy." says Gale with a gleam in his eye. "I want a fulltime repertory company in the performing arts that will be in production twelve months of the year - that's all."

With people like Gale Peterson working at White Oaks Theatre this dream can come true, perhaps sooner than he thinks.



GALE PETERSON

Nancy Bowman In Benefit Show

By EDWARD PETHERICK

Nancy Ness Bowman and her Opera Workshop will present on Sunday at 8:00 p.m. at Hacienda Carmel a benefit performance for Carmel Valley's Children's House.

A group of talented young artists will appear, accompanied by Mrs. J. Oleata at the piano.

This concert is open to the public and we hope to raise a substantial sum for Mrs. Byington Ford's pet project.

Donations of $1 per person will be asked. Tickets may be purchased at Hacienda Carmel and at the office of the Outlook.

PROGRAMS, PROGRAMS

Saturday night members of Hacienda Carmel met Vesa Suhon, a young student from Finland, who showed colored slides and gave a very interesting talk on his native country.

On Sunday afternoon, Axel Duwe presented the Student Baroque Ensemble from the Academy of Music of Monterey in a delightful and interesting series of numbers.

Ted Hill, our chairman of visual entertainment, presented two colored movies Monday night entitled "Hong Kong at Night" and "Charm of Germany." Both were very interesting.

MEMBERS ON THE MOVE

Harold Ireland has just returned from Hawaii after spending two weeks with Mrs. Ireland.

When asked why he came home alone, he replied, "Everywhere we go, Mrs. Ireland finds a reason to stay longer. She likes to visit and explore the out of way places and feels that two weeks does not give her sufficient time."

So he is here and she is there, but will be home soon, we hope.

Stu Smith Wins Two Events To Pace Padre Swimmers Over Gilroy 54-41

By JOHN WRIGHT
Outlook Sports Writer

Stuart Smith won the 200 and 400-yard freestyle events to pace the Carmel High swimmers to a 54-41 victory over the Gilroy Mustangs at the Carmel pool last Wednesday.

Jim Sweeney, Bud Smith, Scott Ricker and Ken Cooper all added firsts for Carmel. Carmel also won the 200 yard medley relay.

Les Leslie was the outstanding lightweight for Carmel. He won the 100-yard individual medley and the 100-yard freestyle to lead the lightweights to a 54-13 victory.

The Carmel track team defeated Gilroy in a dual meet at the Carmel track last Friday. Final score was 84-38. Carmel won 10 of the 14 varsity events.

Marty Gueterrez of Gilroy won the lightweight broad jump with a leap of 20 feet, 5 1/2 inches. This was only one half inch shorter than Rod Sibley's winning varsity jump of 20 feet, 6 inches.

Final score for the lightweight team was 64-48.

The baseball team split a pair of games last week. On Tuesday they defeated King City 8-2. Carmel exploded for six runs in the sixth inning to secure the win.

Winning pitcher was Dave Marvin and the loser was Les Rogers.

On Friday the team lost at Gilroy 6-3. Gilroy scored four runs on five singles in the third inning to take the lead.

Losing pitcher was Jerry Huff and the winner was Godinez of Gilroy.

Ralph went 2 for 2 at the plate to lead the Carmel hitting. Williams had 2 RBI's to lead Gilroy.

Monterey High's baseball team shut out Carmel on the Padre field March 16.

Jim Murzyn went the distance in pitching a two-hitter for the Toreadores. He struck out nine batters and walked two in the process.

Carmel used three pitchers in the contest. Craig Schell put Monterey ahead in the second inning when he hit a home run off loser Jerry Huff.

Monterey scored again in the third, fourth and sixth innings to score a total of nine runs.

AQUAMEN LOSE

The Carmel swimming team lost to a powerful Live Oak squad at the Carmel pool March 17.

Les Leslie, in winning the lightweight 100-yard individual medley, was the only swimmer on the Carmel team to cop a first place. Stuart Smith, John Wright, Tim Petersen, Bud Smith and Scott Ricker all scored seconds for the Padres.

Link and Tichinin scored two firsts each for Live Oak. Final score was 75-20.

BASEBALLERS ALSO WIN

Jery Huff pitched the Padre baseball team to a 4-2 victory over the Gonzales Spartans at Gonzales March 19.

He struck out 13 batters and allowed only four hits.

Don DeAmaral scored the first Carmel run on a sacrifice by Larry Thompson. Ron Mayfield, Bill Stowers and Tim Hall singled for two more runs. Gonzales did not score until the last inning.

TRACKMEN SCORE

Bob Fonseca paced the Carmel track team to a 77-45 victory over Gonzales in a meet at the Carmel track March 19.

Fonseca won the high hurdles, low hurdles and the long jump events.

Other winners were Charlie Eyster in the 100-yard dash, John Whitney in the mile run and Rick Piper in the mile run.

Hospital Auxiliary Meeting Monday at Country Club

The annual spring meeting of the Community Hospital Auxiliary will take place Monday, April 5, at the Carmel Valley Country Club. A coffee hour at 9 a.m., will precede the 10 o'clock meeting.

Active members and their guests are invited. Officers for 1965-1966 will be elected and 1000-hour service awards presented.

Mrs. Arthur T. Bridgett, member of the Palo Alto Medical Center Auxiliary, will speak on "The Volunteer in the Hospital." Dr. William B. Wenner, President-elect of the Medical Staff and chairman of the Patient Care Committee of the Community Hospital, and Mr. Thomas E. Tonkin, Administrator of the Community Hospital, will discuss "Patient Care in the Community Hospital."

Assisting Mrs. Luke Shields, general co-ordinating chairman, will be Mrs. Logan Claiborne, hospitality; Mrs. Charles Simpson, program; and Mrs. Ralph Castagna, decorations.

Author Speaks Wednesday

Beulah Powers, Carmel Valley author, will speak to members of the CV Women's Club next Wednesday, April 7, at Los Laureles Lodge. The luncheon meeting will begin at noon.

Mrs. Powers' subject will be some of the unusual historical facts of life on the Monterey Peninsula during the first decade of the Carmel Mission.

Copies of her latest book, "The Listening One," will be available, and Mrs. Powers will autograph these personally.

Major Billie Mans is in charge of the meeting.

Reservations for the luncheon should be made with Mrs. Tom Waters at 659-4000.

Cyclists in Race

More than 100 amateur cyclists are expected on the Peninsula Sunday for a 50-mile bicycle race around El Estero Park in Monterey. The event is sponsored by the Cypress Cycling Club of Monterey, the Peninsula Junior Chamber of Commerce and the Monterey Recreation Department.

It has the sanction of the Amateur Bicycle League of California, Inc.

Postgrad School Scores With 'Camelot' Spectacle

The play, which involves newcomer Lancelot with Guenevere after she has become Arthur's queen, then presents Arthur with the dilemma of choosing between the two -- both of whom he loves -- includes some of Lerner and Loewe's best tunes.

Among them:

--"I Wonder What the King is Doing Tonight," in which Arthur admits he is nervous at the prospect of his impending marriage.

--"The Simple Joys of Maidenhood," which gives the audience a first glimpse of Guenevere's motivations. It helps explain her impish actions several times.

--"Follow Me." This is the magical plea with which the fairy Nimue, played by Betsy Holmes, persuades Merlyn, the court magician and Arthur's teacher, to leave Camelot. Merlyn is portrayed very well by the same Bob Beers who designed the sets.

--"The Jousts," a number which is surprisingly omitted from the LP album of the Broadway production. The entire court transmits through song the excitement of Lancelot's jousts with the three strongest knights in the kingdom.

It isn't often that an amateur production of this magnitude can recruit such a number of singing actors who are at the best wonderful and at their worst passable. But the Postgrad School group has done it.

Other excellent performances were given by:

--Bob Rasmussen, who portrayed the comical, bumbling Pellinore.

--Bruce Albert, who both sounds and looks the part of Mordred, Arthur's evil bastard son.

--Dallas Shelby, who too both sounds and looks like Morgan Le Fey, Mordred's gluttonous aunt who lives in an enchanted forest.

--John Sickman, John King and Gene Heckathorn, who as Sir Dinadan, Sir Lionel and Sir Sagramore battle Lancelot to keep Guenevere's teasing approval.

Also adding their colorful parts were N. H. Goodsell as Squire Dap, Sara Crandall as Lady Anne, Anita Baumgardner as Lady Sybil, Fenn Horton III as Tom of Warick, Bill Moye and Joe Mitter as pages, Nancy Leslie as Lady Clarius, Rusty Rose as the herald and a delightful sheepdog named Sebastian Knapp as Pellinore's pet, Horrid.

"Camelot" continues its run Friday and Saturday at King Hall on the Postgrad School campus in Monterey with curtain time at 8:30 p.m.

Altogether, when any amateur theater group comes up with as colorful and well-produced musical as was this, it makes a year to remember for Peninsula theatre.

SURF TREAT FOR LOCAL KIDS

Carpeting in wall-to-wall boys was the general effect at the Carmel home of Gary Lothe, Tularcitos School sixth grade teacher, when 17 of his students spent the night before the surfing contest on Carmel beach.

Lothe, who is new to the Carmel system this year, was formerly a teacher in Berkeley, and has made it a custom each winter to take his class for some sort of "steam-letting-off" holiday, skiing or mountain climbing or touring the city.

The surfing weekend seemed made to order, he said.

The boys scouted the beach in the early evening and watched Fred Nason, one of their number, demonstrate the use of a bullwhip which he learned on his father's ranch in the Cachagua.

Snacks and television finished out the day; then sleeping bags were unrolled in the kitchen, the bedroom, the living room, the hallway and everyone settled down -- until the pillow fights started.

These raged intermittently for several hours, but everyone got some sleep --

Breakfast was at Sambo's in Carmel Plaza where early morning patrons were treated to 17 samples of sixth grade appetites. To tone up their muscles, the boys skate-boarded the length of Scenic Drive, then spent the morning admiring and criticizing the surfing techniques.

A mass movement of their headquarters resulted in the temporary loss of one member, but he turned out to be only strayed and the adventure ended gayly as the boys' mothers reclaimed them.

"They were well-behaved boys," Lothe commented, "and showed a lot of self-discipline. You could tell that they knew they were in another person's house and treated it accordingly."

Present for the fun were Mac Borregaard, Tom Boyd, Paul Bresk, Lewis Broadhead, Dan Campbell, Gregg Drew, John Gardiner, Greg Granoff, Stacey Guthrie, Rick Hall, Greg Korver, Peter Mauzey, Fred Nason, Mike Osgood, Thad Sigourney, Win Sinclair and Randy Sweet. By Cordrey missed the outing because of illness.

Lothe's problem now is how to fete the girls in his class. He thinks that perhaps a theater expedition for both the girls and their parents would be a good solution.

Hospital Board Terms Expire

Terms of three Valleyites serving as trustees of Community Hospital are expiring, the hospital said this week.

The three -- from a total of five whose terms are up -- are Mrs. F. G. Cruickshank of Carmel Valley Road, Mrs. John M. Marble of Rancho Tularcitos and Mrs. Samuel F. B. Morse of River Ranch.

Five new trustees will be elected this afternoon at 3 when the hospital holds its annual membership meeting in the hospital's conference room.

PROF. GEORGE WILLIAM SMITH in his everyday appearance (left) and at night as humorist Samuel Clemens who toured the country lecturing and reading his works under his pseudonym, Mark Twain.

Prof. Smith To Appear at Women's Club

A reincarnation of Mark Twain in the person of Prof. George William Smith will entertain members of the Carmel Woman's Club on Monday, April 5, at 2 p.m.

In white suit, white wig and cigar-stained moustache, Smith lectures just as Twain did, or reads sketches written by the famous humorist. His program has been characterized as a "fine balance of hilarity and pathos."

He will be presented to the club by Miss Rhea Dively, program chairman. Presiding at the tea tables will be Mmes. Lawrence Kinster, Roy D. Elliott, Dayton Bennett and Myrtle Stoddard.

Music On Peninsula

By Mary Lindsay-Oliver

Juan Serrano, Flamenco guitarist who has won a foremost place as a manipulator of his instrument, gave a recital at Sunset auditorium. The audience was large ly composed of young people for whom the guitar today seems to have a special attraction.

It can hardly be regarded as a serious instrument, for its somewhat monotonous twanging tones limit expression in the finer forms though they are strong on the agility of dance rhythms.

Serrano does more than project these rhythms, for he believes the best Flamenco music must come from within oneself. Consequently, nearly all the pieces played were either his own compositions or his arrangements of authentic themes. His creative gifts are enhanced by the dexterity of his extraordinary manipulations.

Originally a growth of the emtional expression of gypsies, Flamenco is as nearly primitive as any music, but few can make it artistic in the way that Serrano does. The final number on the program was believed to have originated with Adalusian gypsies which the player claimed to be "the most pathetic dance to evolve from the human soul."

Recalled with enthusiasm he played two extras. He will appear during the summer at the Spanish pavillion of the New York World's Fair.

CHORAL CONCERT

The annual spring concert by the MPC College Chorus and the College Singers, a smaller group, will take place Friday evening at 8:30 in the First Presbyterian Church, Monterey. Dr. Harvey Marshall, chairman of the MPC music department, directs the chorus.

Selections by Pachelbal, Handel, Palestrina and Rachmaninov will be performed by the 57 voice chorus; the College Singers will present "Mass for Mixed Chorus" by Stravinsky.

Golf Club Architect To Speak

Charles Robert Haugh, Pacific Grove landscape architect who designed landscaping for Carmel Valley Golf & Country Club, will be guest speaker Friday at the April meeting of Carmel Valley Garden Association.

The meeting will be at 8 p.m. at Tularcitos School.

MRS. BOTTARO AND STUDENTS

At Saddle Mountain

Mrs. Bottaro Plans Summer Day Camp

Mrs. Nancy Bottaro, teacher-principal of Palo Colorado School, will conduct a day-camp combining outdoor activities with academic pursuits this summer at Saddle Mountain Ranch in Carmel Valley.

Registration will be limited to 25 children between the ages of 8 and 14. Ten youngsters have already enrolled and she is firm about limiting the size of the group, Mrs. Bottaro stressed.

"Otherwise I cannot hope to give them the individual attention around which this experience is planned."

Activities will commence at 10 a.m. and end at 3:30 p.m., Mondays through Fridays from June 21 to July 31. Approximately two hours each day will be devoted to lessons designed to fit the interests and needs of the individual students.

Since Mrs. Bottaro has for several years taught all subjects from grades one through six at Palo Colorado, she feels easily qualified to cope with the range in ages and types of material to be pursued.

She also holds a water safety instructor's credential and prior to taking over the leadership of Palo Colorado School taught swimming at Carmel High School.

She will not only give swimming lessons to each child as part of the daily activities, but will also sponsor a Swim Club to participate in local competitions, "if there is sufficient interest."

Complete facilities of Saddle Mountain will be available to the day-campers, including the hiking trails over 100 acres of hillside, a large heated swimming pool, volleyball and various other outdoor game installations, plus a brand-new clubhouse which was remodeled this winter from the original Saddle Mountain barn.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Frumkin, owners and co-directors of Saddle Mountain Ranch, expressed great pleasure at Mrs. Bottaro's decision to undertake the day-camp project.

"We have heard of Mrs. Bottaro's excellence as a teacher for a number of years," said Mrs. Frumkin, "and couldn't be more delighted that she will be with us this summer."

Mrs. Bottaro said that the cost of the six-week course will be $100 per child. She stressed that interviews with parents must precede registration.

"I have no intention of running a babysitting service," she said. "This is going to be a good experience for active minds and bodies, not just a convenient place to leave a child."

The actual program will depend upon the interests and talents of the youngsters who enroll in the program, said Mrs. Bottaro, but the hillside hiking trails naturally suggest such projects as "art trips," "science trips" and so forth.

Enthusiastic about the undertaking, she told the Outlook "This is the first summer in 10 years of teaching that I haven't had to take summer courses myself. If it develops as I hope, it will be the first of many summers with planned programs for children at Saddle Mountain."

The California State Automobile Association reminds that the best protection when walking at night is to wear white clothing. Even one white or light-colored article of clothing, such as a jacket or hat, helps to make the person afoot easier to see.

Prof Tells Kiwanis Problems Of Obtaining Fossil Whale

The vicissitudes of obtaining authorization from officials to remove a fossil whale from Hunter Liggett Military Reservation were related with humor by MPC Geology Instructor Mel Bristow to Carmel Valley Kiwanis Club

MPC geology students are now carefully unearthing the 30 million year old whale skeleton, which will be reconstructed and exhibited at MPC.

Kiwanis Division Gov. Frank Heiner from Hollister was introduced by Past Gov. Herb Brownell. Sheriff Jack Davenport also was a club visitor as well as Fred Pastorius, a retired airline pilot and new Valley resident.

Five members of the club assembled at 5 a.m. at Cypress Bowl to bowl and attend Monterey's early-bird club the previous week, Manford Myers announced.

Ken Van Hagen, Village Red Cross chairman, recruited these Kiwanisans to help with the annual drive: Larry Cummings, Jack Uzzell, Lou Gardner, Tom Waters, Tom Hefling, Joe Ricupero, Dr. Dean Campbell, By Ford and Lou Allaire. Mrs. Lori Sweiss is also helping.

Bull fighting films in color were shown by Dr. Dean Campbell to Carmel Valley Kiwanis Club last week.

He reviewed the development of bull fighting since its beginning four centuries ago in Spain. He took the movies during bull fights at Tijuana, Mexico, when he was stationed in the Navy in San Diego.

Board Candidates Appear Tuesday

Candidates for three boards of education in Monterey County will speak on their own behalf at a candidates meeting sponsored by the Carmel Unit of the League of Women Voters April 6.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the library of Carmel Junior High School.

Invitations have been issued to hopefuls in the Carmel Unified and County school boards races and to those running for the Monterey Peninsula College board.

Safeway Signs for New Store In Carmel Rancho Shop Center

Safeway Stores, Inc., has signed a lease to build a 30,000-sq. ft. supermarket in Carmel Rancho Shopping Center.

The store will be the second largest in Safeway's San Francisco division. Construction will begin this fall.

Special departments will include a bakery, delicatessen, snack bar and service liquor department.

Harry Bell, Carmel Rancho, Inc., president, said the center is negotiating with several other stores for the center's second phase.

Included are a junior department store, coffee shop, men's stores, shoe stores and women's specialty fashion shops.

Elston & Cranston, Carmel architects, have been named as project architects for the shopping center.

'Air Drop'

Fire Chief Addresses Lions

Carmel Valley Fire Chief Chip Collins addressed the Valley Lions Club at their dinner meeting Wednesday evening at Plaza Linda restaurant.

Collins showed a film, "Air Drop to Control Fire," a phase in fire-fighting which played an important role in a fire last summer in Robles Del Rio.

The president of Carmel Valley Community Center board of directors accepted on the board's behalf a check for $514.

The funds, proceeds from the club's recent "Days of Wine and Roses" ball, will assist the purchase of drapes and painting of the center's interior.

Dan Yurkovich, principal of Carmel Junior High School, was guest speaker at the Wednesday dinner meeting of Carmel Valley Lions Club. His topic was "The Responsibility of Adults toward Juvenile Delinquents and High School Dropouts."

Lionettes Meet

Carmel Valley Lionettes were taken back to frontier Carmel Valley by Roy Meadows Jr., who spoke to the group at their monthly dinner meeting last week at Reuben's restaurant.

Mrs. Carl Moberg, hostess for the evening, used an Indian theme for the table decor.

Tularcitos Parents Express Concern Over Airstrip Near School, Send Letter to District Trustees

Tularcitos School Parents Club has expressed concern about the danger of the Valley airstrip near Tularcitos School.

In a letter sent to the Carmel Unified School District board of education, President John Sigourney requested the board to investigate the situation.

Text of the letter:

Dear Gentlemen and Madam:

The Board of Directors of the Tularcitos Parents Club wish to call your attention to recent public announcements relating to the so-called airstrip adjacent to our school. These reports indicate the possibility of official status and increased use of this facility. Many local citizens and parents are concerned and anxious over the safety of the children attending Tularcitos.

The following facts should be known:

1. Although often several planes are taking off or landing at the same time, there is no traffic control.

2. In the unlikely event that some kind of traffic control were instituted, the basic flight pattern remains the same: either over the school or in close proximity to it.

3. The airstrip is not now, nor can it be, restricted to emergency landing use.

4. Because the airstrip has less traffic than a municipal airfield, a large proportion of users are novice pilots. It is well known that instructors utilize the landing strip for student practice. Multiple landings and take-offs by the same aircraft are common practice.

5. There is a vocal group of private airplane enthusiasts who desire the personal convenience of this airstrip. This is understandable.

6. Use of the airstrip has increased in proportion to the population, affluence, and leisure time of our society. Congestion risk, and the probability of misadventure has increased accordingly.

Our Board desires to make known our disquiet and anxious sense of the possible consequences of a faulty aircraft or judgement error by an inexperienced pilot.

Many in our community see a clear, present, and continuing jeopardy for our children.

We ask that you act to eliminate the present danger and to alert the necessary federal and state regulatory agencies to see that this is brought about.

In this instance a handful of people determine the degree of risk to which our children and those of our neighbors are subjected.

In our land great emphasis is given to the saving of one human life. Here we weigh the lives of approximately 450 members of our community.

Please inform us of your actions.

Very truly yours,
John Sigourney
President
Tularcitos Parents Club

Local Births at Community Hospital

A daughter has been born at Community Hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Little of Carmel. They named the March 5 newcomer Christine Elise.

Mr. and Mrs. James Enlow of Carmel became parents of a girl, Kimberly Elizabeth, March 8 at Community Hospital.

COVER GIRL REVISITED -- Tia Hennessey, Carmel Youth Center member who we photographed recently to publicize the Center's fashion show, was photogenic even back when she was a tyke. Photographer George T. C. Smith dug into his back files to find this shot, circa 1952 or thereabouts, showing Tia and a pet lamb named Lamb Chop.

Stephen Schloss

Stephen Schloss, graduate of the Defense Language Institute and a civilian employee of the Army Audit Agency, was killed recently in an auto accident near Lucca, Italy.

His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Stanley H. Schloss of Country Club Drive.

The U.S. Army is returning the body to Carmel Valley, where his father has announced, private services will be conducted.

Stephen Schloss, 35, is also survived by a brother, Anthony, of Wilmington, Del., and by a nephew and three nieces.

A graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, he had been on temporary duty at the American North Atlantic Treaty Organization installation in the Livorno area.

BPOA Forms Committee

Merchants Move on Village Plan

Development of a master plan for Carmel Valley Village took a step forward last week.

Valley Business Property Owners Association decided to establish a committee to formulate a master plan.

President Lou Gardner said the committee, chaired by Larry Cummings, will work independently but with liason to a similar committee set up by the Valley Chamber of Commerce.

Gardner made the announcement following a closed meeting of the membership last Tuesday night. All BPOA meetings are closed to the press by decision of the members, he noted.

The committee will consist of six persons, as yet not chosen, Gardner said.

The decision to form the group came after a joint BPOA-Chamber meeting with County Planning Director Ed DeMars. DeMars has said repeatedly that the master plan is needed.

Formation of a master plan was also recommended in the planning study of the Village made by the county planning staff.

"It is evident the county expects the people of the Valley to make the next move," Gardner told the Outlook.

He said the BPOA agrees that a master plan is necessary. The committee's study of the problem may take until January, 1966, he added.

Gold walls... jade doors... and a topaz on every spire... but where's the Medallion award?

Dazzling decor is delightful. But it won't keep you warm. Or cook your meals. Or light your house when it's dark outside. Medallion conveniences will. When a home bears the Medallion, it means it has an electric kitchen, Planned Lighting, full HOUSEPOWER wiring and work-saving appliances. When you look for a new home, don't settle for less. (Even if they throw in the native dancers.)

Bob's Corner HOUSEHOLD HINTS

BY BOB LAMBERT

Owner of Valley Appliance Sales & Service 659-4039.

HINT OF THE WEEK:

People who like to do a lot of fancy baking in an electric oven, should allow the oven to cycle at least three times before putting the bakery goods inside. In the first couple of cycles, the temperature is highly erratic and could be as high as 50 degrees or higher over temperature. By the third cycle, everything is normalized and should be accurate within 10%. Crusting of bakery goods or failing to rise properly can be traced to this source. Meats are not critical, in this respect.

Dear Mrs. C.B.:

The soap suds that you are noticing on your dishes after the final rinse in the dishwasher could be caused due to the improper detergent being put into the rinse injector on the door of the dishwasher. There is a special compound with a silicon base for this purpose; obtainable at Carmel Valley Market or through myself. BOB.

Questions concerning applicances may be sent via post card or letter to Bob's Corner, Bin CC, Carmel Valley.

No-Grade Schools May Transform Education

The long-established American ethic that "work is good" may soon be a thing of the past, Principal Frank Brown of Melbourne High School, Melbourne, Fla., told a near-capacity audience at Sunset School recently.

The rationale of "The Ungraded High School" was described by the nationally-known educator as third in a series of four lectures presented by the Carmel Adult School and the board of education.

"As few as 20 percent of the population may soon produce all necessary goods and services. Long-unattainable hopes of mankind are being realized at the push of a button. What may now become permanently unattainable is full employment," he averred.

"The new ethic might become Man should be free of drudgery, free to develop his mind, free for self-fulfillment."

Such extravagant changes in our society must be met by equally striking new measures in education, he said.

The rigidity of a graded system must be replaced with a flexible arrangement, he said.

The methods followed at Melbourne High:

- Test all students on nationally standardized achievement tests and place each "where he is, not where he is 'supposed' to be."
- Make arrangements for mobility so that individual students may move forward as fast as they can master new knowledge.

"Nothing is so unequal as the equal treatment of unequals," he stated.

"We abandoned the traditional curriculum because it was designed to meet the needs of groups, not individuals."

"The virtue of facts is as taken for granted as that of Mother and the U. S. Marines," he said, "but covering facts will become fruitless. As old jobs become obsolete and new ones are created, it is possible that students of today will have to be re-trained thrice during their lifetimes.

As new knowledge accumulates at an ever-accelerating rate, students need to understand how to experiment, evaluate, make discoveries. Curiosity and the determination to express ones self are the two key attitudes in a problem solving approach, he said.
